Show Time 7:30- 800

Good Evening Show Time listeners. Tonight we are going to listen to "Good News." Originally a play, a few years ago it came forth from Hollywood revived and a little redecorated. On a carpet of magic technicolor M G M's rollicking musical romance carries you back to the carefree 20's when ~~ikk~~ a depression was just a hole in the ground and a flapper was a femme fatale. The Tait College campus is the scene, the opening of the term is the time, and the chief and often opposing topics of conversation are the coming footballseason and a ravishing new beauty who has just joined the senior class.

Good News stars June Allyson as Tait's best student, who introduces Peter Lawford, the dashing football hero , to French and to his first real romance. Also featured are Joan McCraken as an extremely vivacious co-ed, alittle like Danny Kaye and Patricia Marshall as the beautiful, but oh so blase new senior.

Joan McCraken opens the show and seems to be reawakening the college --they can hear it over the entire campus--as she sings, while everyone else in the luncheonette eats, "Good News Tait College."

Its Peter in the middle with Pat tugging at one side and June from the other. They each sing their own version of being "Lucky in Love".

(record)

June is very studious -- not party -party that is--and doesn't know how to trap a man--this girl would have been lost on Smith campus.-- Forced to live in the land of dreams she sings "Just Imagine."

Just so we don't get to sleepy while listening to this show --we know every is tired after Thanksgiving vacation-- we will something that will shake us right out of our textbooks. Joan sings "Pass that Peace Pipe."

(record)

Far be it from Peter to let the girls steal the show so he steps forth with a song that we wish some fellows from nearby territories would listen to and learn from--He's a Ladies Man".

(record)

In a setting a little reminiscent of some pictures in a Life article titled Smith vs Missouri-- the library of Tait College-- June finds Peter browsing among the textbooks. He is trying to learn his French.in to pass the exam and so be able to play in the football game. June, knowing this , for the glory of Tait and also hoping that our hero will at last notice her , she offers to help him and proceeds with the "French Lesson, "

(record)

This statement is really very debatable but Peter and june sing "The Best Things in Life are Free."

(record)

The story ends happily. Tait wins the game--Peter ,of course,is responsible for that -- though an urgent call had to be sent out for June. The moment she appeared , his courage restored ,Peter won the game and June won Peter. Changing into a party -party girl , at the victory dance that night she leads the class in the "Victory Drag".
